WE NOMINATE

Otis Kline Fulmer, able Princeton architect and partner in the far-reaching firm of Fulmer and Bowers, who is the locomotive force in carrying forward the carefully-projected plans for Princeton Manor House, $5,000,000 community of residential cooperative apartments especially designed for older persons. While Manor House, currently pegged at 364 apartments, offers no easy panacea, it does represent a distinctive, refreshing approach to one of the nation's most pressing domestic problems — a rapidly aging population — and breaks sharply with the unfortunate American tradition of attempting to place elderly citizens in social backwaters during their so-called declining years.

As early as 1946 Fulmer, then headquartered in New York following a year as director of design with the great (if controversial) Norman Bel Geddes, began wrestling with the problem of intelligently planned housing for "retirement living," an area in which basic conceptions had been largely limited to real estate developments and "old folks homes." Major insurance companies, particularly those offering endowment policies as an effective way of "covering those golden later years", seemed to be logical sponsors and to several of them Fulmer suggested the possibility of establishing policies that would yield life income and would also provide attractive residential opportunities. These first thoughts came to naught!

With his former Manhattan-based firm, Churchill, Fulmer Associates, flourishing, and winning recognition for its undertakings in the spheres of urban planning, large-scale housing projects and education, Fulmer continued to probe for the right kind of "shelter environment for older, generally retired persons." By 1956, four years after he had moved to Princeton, he had completed preliminary drawings for what has since been developed into Manor House with its complex of supporting facilities, including a fully-equipped infirmary, central, hotel-like dining arrangements and recreational and social "outlets."

The next step, leading to the creation of a nine-member local Board of Trustees headed by the 56-year old Fulmer, was suggested by the example of the highly successful Willamette View Manor in Portland Oregon. He visited Portland in 1960, made arrangements for "continuing consultation" with Willamette Manor, and last February announced the first such "retirement residence" in the eastern United States. "There is", in Fulmer's words, "no speculation, no government assistance, no mortgage financing and the Trustees are giving their time, experience and effort without charge . . . Our progress is dependent entirely on the reaction of potential residents."

A native of McKeesport, Pa., and a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology and Harvard, Fulmer is one of the few American architects of his vintage who can claim a six-month "apprenticeship" in the Soviet Union, where in 1932 he and his wife survived food shortages and a jolting crossing of Siberia via the Trans-Siberian Railway. During World War II, after he had been associated with the design and administration of the Green Belt community near Washington, D.C., he was National Technical Director for Housing under the Federal Defense Housing Act.

For seeking workable approaches to the conditions presented by our mushrooming above-60 population; for advancing a housing prototype, organized along non-profit and non-denominational lines, that could conceivably appeal to some 20% of the country's senior citizens; for his thoughtful concern for an architect's "social obligations"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

THE PROBLEM IS PEOPLE

Pollution Discussed. The continuing problems — regional as well as local — that beset an area when people move in and build houses where neither houses nor people have been before, were explored in the Princeton area this week by a private Princeton citizen who is disturbed by the pollution that seems inevitable to follow the bulldozer.

On Monday night at the Forsgate Country Club, 50 representatives of 13 industries, 12 municipalities, three counties and assorted public and private agencies attended a conference on pollution sponsored by the watersheds association. Earlier in the week, Daignt O. North, 40 Random Road, sent to the Joint Sewer Operating Committee the Watershed Association and the "Princeton community" his detailed protest against the encroachment of pollution on the brooks and streams of the Princeton area. Harry's Brook in particular. (See picture, this page.)

At the outset of the watershed conference, Robert Shaw, chief engineer for environmental health of the state department of health traced the course of Stony Brook as it flows from its source in the uplands of Hopewell Township (no sanitary sewers in this Township, even in the Borough of Hopewell and Pennington); past Western Electric, with its pollution control problems; past the site of the projected Princeton Manor House, with its potential of 60-75,000 extra gallons per day to dump into "the stream"; past Educational Testing Service whose sound disposal plant nevertheless sends a "residual plug" of pollution into the stream;

then two miles through a section of Princeton Township which Mr. Shaw characterized as one of the most valuable residential areas in the country, but less valuable today than in the past because of its pollution problems; and finally into Lake Carnegie "which is well - fertilized," in Mr. Shaw's words, and into the Millstone at Kingston.

Within the Stony Brook - Millstone area, said Mr. Shaw, there are no sanitary sewers in Franklin, Montgomery or Hillsboro Townships, except in isolated areas. Rocky Hill has no sewer. Millstone has no sewer. "And these are not such 'rust' areas any more," he commented.

Furits? In response to municipal officials and taxpayers who worry about pollution however, Mr. Shaw said that there was no such thing as "pristine purity," and that it was an impossible goal to strive for. "What we must consider is undue pollution," he explained, "and able what exists, prevent it from developing in the future and control it both now and in the future."

He suggested that municipal officials learn to look beyond their own boundaries for solutions to sewer problems, and observed that the future might see a master trunk sewer from Stony Brook on down the Millstone - Continued on Page 2

Person To Person

A friend made an observation about the development of our country which is most appropriate for our thoughts this week. He said, "If ever there could be a 'Utopia,' it could be beautifully and simply on the last paragraph of our Declaration of Independence," which reads:

"And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

He said, "Is there any wonder that a country founded on such a basis soon became the greatest nation on earth? Perhaps it visualizes an achievement which man cannot permanently attain, but while our forefathers worked toward their ideal, their accomplishments of a nation were in the realm of miracles."

"The nearer we may approach such mutual dedication the nearer we would be to the perfect state, and it is practiced by the Soviets, where men are regimented and dominated to a point where no one ordinary person is of any importance at all."

More words cannot do justice to our celebration of Independence Day on July fourth, when humble reverence may be the most fitting observance.

stone and employing into the Claritan, with compensating reverts.

"Local municipalities must all agree and patch up the problems that are here right now," he said "but a general Master Plan for camouflage, into which these immediate solutions could eventually fit is essential."

To emphasize his remarks on regional cooperation, Mr. Shaw pointed out that Princeton Township has pollution problems at its northern border, which joins the Township of Montgomery. He said that the natural drainage of northern Princeton Township was toward Montgomery and Rocky Hill, and that to pump this waste over the Princeton Township hill into the Borough as sewer treatment plant would be infinitely more expensive than working with adjoining municipalities toward a joint solution of a common problem.

"A Princeton - Stony-Brook Sewerage Authority which would comprise all or parts of Stony Brook might be a solution," he commented.

"I Protest." Meanwhile, Mr. North's statement expressed the view of a township resident who is equally concerned with pollution and with irrevocably enough, the dependence of sewers themselves.

Mr. North, whose property encompasses part of Harry's Brook, is disturbed by the mis-treatment of brooks and streams on the part of municipal authorities. He cites the disappearance of the trout that used to live in Harry's Brook as the destruction of trees, the increase in flooding after down-pours, erosion, the growth of shifting gravel - banks and the increasing use of streams as private dumping grounds. In addition, he protests the practice of laying sewers in the flood plains of streams because "insulation against cross flow (in both directions) is next to impossible" and because "insulation against cross flow is the aesthetic quality of a stream that you prize."

Arthur Brekew, Borough engineer, says that the Sewer Operating Committee would presently be clearing out a 20 foot right-of-way along 19 miles of Borough sewer line so that equipment can get through the underbrush to maintain the sewer. He says that clearing-out must grow into sewerage and cause leaks.

Both Mr. Brekew and Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Watersheds Association, point out that in the interests of economy, a sewer line almost has to run by gravity, which means that it will be laid in a stream bed.

"The destruction of trees is an unfortunate affair," Mr. Crooks agrees, "and I am certainly sympathetic with Mr. North's concern. Unfortunately these problems are not easily solved because the land has been in people. Natural resources take a beating when people move in."

The Watersheds' official has walked the length of Harry's Brook with soil conservation experts in an attempt to see whether flood control is possible, and the Watersheds' North that it is discouraging to see what has happened to the stream.

Mr. Crooks says that houses which have been standing dry for 15 years along Harry's Brook have had flooding in the last five years, because building and bulldozing and urbanization have brought about what did not exist before.

Stream Capacity. In regard to "well-fertilized" Carnegie Lake, Mr. Crooks has a reassuring word, echoed by the speakers at the Watersheds' conference:

"Streams can assimilate a lot of sewage and purify it as they flow," Mr. Crooks says. "The water that flows into the Millstone is not drinking pure, but it will be a few miles downstream. So long as we let water flow all the way down a stream, and as long as there isn't an upward amount of leakage, streams can handle the pollution we hand them."

Represented at the Watersheds' conference were Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation, American Cyanamid, two divisions of RCA, The Machinery and Chemical Company, Matter Instrument Company, Soreco, Hercules Powder, Johns - Manville, Union Carbide and the Princeton Water Company, Middlesex Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, representatives, and Dr. Edward Rutgers, Princeton University, the United States Geologic Survey, the Federal Soil Conservation District, and the state departments of agriculture and health.

Speakers, besides Mr. Shaw were Dr. Charles B. Wurte-latter, director of pollution studies with Consulting Biologists, Inc., Philadelphia, Dr. Kemble Wither State geologist, and Dr. Edward B. Wilcox, director of community planning at Rutgers.

ORGANIZATION FORMED

Fears loss of Character. The Princeton - Stony Brook Association has been formed to preserve the character of those areas now under fire for the most part in Princeton Township. It is led by the newly-formed group that recent actions have altered the character of the Township Board of Adjustment for special permits, if granted, would seriously alter the character of these residential districts, particularly District R-1.

David H. McAlpin, Christian H. Hall, Matthew C. Flemming Jr. and G. Victor Davis have been elected to the executive committee. The following will serve as officers pending a permanent election: Mr. Davis, president; Mr. James F. Spencer, secretary; and William R. Bontrich, treasurer.

FIREMEN WILL MARCH

In Annual Inspection. Uniformed members of Princeton volunteer fire companies will march in their annual parade this Friday at 7 p.m. The firemen will march down Nassau from Chambers Street, turning at Olden Avenue at 7:30 to stand for their annual inspection by the Mayor and the Board and members of Borough Council. In the absence of Mayor Raymond F. Hale, acting mayor Alfred E. Sorenson will conduct the inspection.

BAND WILL PLAY

This Friday, Princeton's Community Band, under Richard C. Greenberger, will give its first concert of the summer season this Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the field of Nassau Hall. In case of rain, the concert will be given next Monday, July 3, at the same time, and the band will also perform next Tuesday at the Fourth of July celebrations in Palmer Stadium.

The program will consist of Henry Hadley's "Youth Triumphant Overture," Tchaikovsky's "Toccata," Gustav Holst's "Second Suite for Band in B" and a theme and variations by Tchaikovsky.

The Committee also passed on first reading an ordinance for a sidewalk on the south side of Vignolia Lane from Littlebrook School to Littlebrook Road. A public hearing on the project, which is part of the sidewalk master plan, is scheduled for July 6.

Finally, the municipality has appealed a ruling by the State Board of Taxation that the home of the manager of the Tenacre Foundation is tax exempt property. Henry M. Stratton is handling the appeal before the appellate division of the Superior Court.

CANDIDATES SPEAK

On Night. In a statement released this week, the three Republican candidates for office in the Borough express their concern with the planning Board's action on blight, particularly as it pertains to the houses on Green Street.

The candidates, Henry S. Patterson, Jr., who is running for Mayor, and Alan W. Carrick and Joseph R. Wood, who are running for Borough Council, take issue with the actual procedure followed by the Board, as well as with the decision reached. Their statement, in its entirety:

"When we attended the public hearing of April 11, we heard it clearly stated that the Borough would offer no evidence as to the houses on Green Street, a part of the so-called 'Blight Area.' No further Borough evidence was introduced on May 2, when the public hearing was concluded.

Yet the document we have examined is full of statistics as to the houses on Green Street as well as Jackson Street drawn from a report (field May 17) by the Borough Superintendent of Buildings and Borough Health Officer. Who is the Borough Superintendent of Buildings? He is the Borough Engineer, who is also the voting Secretary of the Planning Board.

"We have been informed that the Blight Report was drafted by Mr. McHugh, the Borough's Consultant and a chief witness at the hearings. Perhaps, because it was not prepared by a member of the Board or its attorney, the findings of Blight is so largely placed in a misleading way on the Federal tests for Urban Renewal procedures, instead of on the New Jersey Act.

The federal requirement is satisfied if a bare fifth of an area is found substandard (plus two 'environmental deficiencies'). These Mr. McHugh has easily been able to suggest as being such things as the improper land use as the overcrowding of the First Baptist Church and many houses and the danger of the present Jackson Street.

"On the other hand, the New Jersey statute requires a finding of Blight to be based on the fact that the 'generality of the buildings used as dwellings' be sub-standard, unsafe, unsanitary and dilapidated to the point of being 'conducive to unwholesome living.' In other words, New Jersey's test is far more strict.

"In reading the Blight Report, we discover that structures are termed, in descending order, 'a' (disputed - Continued on Page 4)

PLAYGROUND POSTPONED

Township Questions Plans. The Township Committee postponed action on a request for $22,000 to complete the Grover Avenue Playground at its regular meeting Monday night. It questioned the value of adding three tennis and two handball courts to the playground, which is adjacent to the Shopping Center parking lot.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman led the opposition, pointing out that a number of tennis courts would be included in the proposed Community Gardens Park and that therefore it would be unwise to begin scattering them around the municipality now. He also questioned the amount of use the handball court would receive.

In the end, the Committee returned the recommendation to the Board of Recreation Commissioners, requesting that a fuller explanation of the need for the tennis and handball courts be given. A second recommendation from the Board, to spend $80,000 to grade and seed seven acres of the Community Gardens property, will be acted upon at the July 6 meeting of the Committee.

In other action, the Committee accepted the resignation of Samuel Frothingham as chairman of the Township Planning Board. Mr. Frothingham is moving into the Borough. The Committee did not appoint a successor.

...to deteriorated and (3) deficient (one "deficiency" being the use of a space heater). We observe, further, that the deficiencies tabulated in the Report are pooled numerically, too and possibly more to a house. By this method of tabulation one does not simply label a house "bad" and pass it on the next one; one aggregates all the "deficiencies" one can find and apply these to all the houses, good and bad. This makes for an impressive statistical result - but is it fair?

"Is it fair to condemn houses to the blight of the Federal laws is New Jersey's? Is it fair to bring in an inspection report by the back door, after the public hearings have been held and the city has been questioned by the attorneys opposing the Blight determination?"

"Is it fair to use Green Street 'deficiencies' after announcing that the Borough was offering no evidence as to that part of the 'Bligh Area'?" Is it fair to permit a vote by the Secretary of the Planning Board who, as the Superintendent of Buildings, signs the inspection report which is now in evidence to prove Blight?

"The proponents of this Project are certainly right in telling us that it is not bringing in like a case to court. But no matter what one calls it-is this fair play?"

"We urgently present these questions to our fellow citizens. Must the people of Princeton put up with this sort of thing in order to celebrate a street? At this price to our public conscience, do we of the Borough of Princeton want the Federal Government's money toward building the new Jackson Street? Why don't we do it on our own?"

Wilson, 225 Jefferson Road, has received the $250 Alan Forrest Jensen Memorial Scholarship award presented by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jensen in memory of their son to a graduate of Princeton High school who is planning a scientific career.

Alan Jensen was killed in 1956 in a Nassau Street traffic accident. Parking Building Suggested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As everyone knows, land in the Borough of Princeton is both scarce and valuable. Even so three more lots have been condemned to be used for hideous looking parking lots. Would it not be more sensible to convert one of the present parking lots to a parking building with 2 or 3 ramps underground, and 2 or 3 above ground. It can be made attractive looking.

Most towns have parking buildings by the Playhouse, or part of the Witherspoon parking lot would be perfect for such a building.

unifying spirit of the community. Mr. Beck said that during the Urban Renewal hearings he had become aware of the lack of communication among the organizations operating in Princeton. He felt he could not make a statement at the time, however, because it "would have been prejudicial to the Board's role as an impartial listening post."

The chairman stated the Board's willingness to cooperate with the University and offered to make relevant data in its files available to the University's planning consultants. It has also been suggested that the Borough planning consultant, Francis D. McElough, provide liaison between the Board and the University planners.

LICENSES LOST

Under State System. Three area drivers have lost their licenses temporarily under New Jersey's excessive speed and point systems. George H. Wood, III, 18, 734 Prospect Ave. Ext., has had his license suspended for 30 days under the 60-70 excessive speed program. Rahab Shalender, 37, 107 Autumn Hill Road, and Henry R. Kaiser, 23, Hightstown, both had licenses suspended for one month under the point system.

THREE FINED

has levied fines of $15 each against three motorists for careless driving. Fined were Louis D'Negin, 27, of 28 Birch Avenue; John E. Kerney, Jr., 21, of 112 Hodge Road; and Mrs. Ellen O. Rooble, 29, of River Road, Titusville. A similar charge against Mrs. Margaret Cophlan, 36, of Carter Road, was dismissed.

In other cases, Gavin B. Beck, 18, of a Cherrybrook Drive, pleaded non vult to a charge of allowing an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle. He was fined $15 by former Township Magistrate Louis Gerber who sat in for Magistrate Tamm in this case. Mrs. Mariana R. Wagner, 34, of a Hunter Road, was fined $15, overdrive inspection.

In criminal court, Mr. Gerber fined Edilene Vernon, 18, of 72 Clay Street, $20 for assault and battery. She pleaded guilty to striking Linda Geise of 62 Clay Street with a 1 1/2 spike heel of her shoe.

News Of The THEATRES

SHAW IS FIRST
In Summer Series, "Great Catherine" and "Village Wooing" by Bernard Shaw will raise the summer curtain for the Princeton Players, opening at Princeton Country Day School at 8:30 p.m. next Monday.
Philip Minor will direct the Shaw double bill and portray one of the two lovers in "VILLAGE Wooing." In the past, he has directed productions of Shaw's "Heartbreak House," "The Philanderer" and "Back to Methuselah" and this fall he will direct "Misalliance" for the Sheridan Square Playhouse.

"Great Catherine" pokes amusing fun at politics, liberalism and the English country gentleman, describing not the Great Catherine, but as Shaw says, "the Catherine whose gallantries provide some of the lightest pages in modern history."

In "Village Wooing," Shaw sketches out one of his favorite themes: the woman as pursuer in courtship.

In addition to Mr. Minor, the cast for the two plays will include Betty Fussell, Ted D'Arms, George Reinhardt and Peter Duncan.

UP-RIVER THEATRE
Lambertville, Bucks, "Tenderloin," the recent Broadway musical, stars Alan Howday in the Lambertville Music Circus production which will run through Sunday, July 8, at St. John Terwiller's musical tent.

Meanwhile, across the river in New Hope, the Bucks County Playhouse continues to offer a pre-Broadway run of "The Interpreter," Eric Ruddy's new dramatic thriller. The play will be on the boards through Saturday, July 8.

Written by a former interpreter the new play takes place at a 1910 summit meeting between the men who head the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union. Richard Kiley has the title role, and Fred Clark and Ben Hunter play the two statesmen. Kiley has recently been seen as a United States Senator in the Broadway production of "Advise and Consent." The Bucks County Playhouse has five other new scripts which it will offer in pre-Broadway productions this summer.

The Tobacco Valley of Connecticut. Although it effectively proves this point, "Parrish" also demonstrates that shifting "Tobacco Road" to the Connecticut Valley doesn't necessarily produce a good movie. In fact, the end result is little more than a star-studded nothing.

Based on a novel by Mildred Savage, it is the tale of Parrish McLean's (Troy Donahue) progress towards manhood, with most of the emphasis on his involvement with Lucy Howie (Connie Stevens), Allison Post (Diane McBain) and Paige Ralke (Sharon Horgan), in that order. While Parrish is busy working in the tobacco fields and making love, his mother (Claudette Colbert) plays desperone to Diane and strikes up a friendship with a local wheel, Judd Ralke (Karl Malden).

The actors (three of them have won Oscars) and the beautiful setting should make for a fine movie, but the plot and inept screenplay prevent this. Ironically, the overall effect is not unlike that produced by a recent western, "One-Eyed Jack."

Gone with the Wind (July 5-11), the most famous of all screen epics, comes to Princeton for the third time since it was first released 22 years ago. At that time, spending nearly four hours to see one film was a distinct novelty, and the affair was stretched out even more by the addition of an intermission. Today, evening-long films are more commonplace, but the holding power of this dramatic tale of love and war in mid-19th century America has not diminished.

For those of the younger generation who have not yet made a pilgrimage to see this epic, and for those of the older generation whose memory fails — Continued on Page 8.

LIGHT INDUSTRY VS. HEAVY TAXES: Dan Tammari favors letting more light industry locate in Princeton in order to lessen the burden the taxpayers now bear. For comments of those who would oppose this move, see below. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: Would you be in favor of, or opposed to, more light industry locating in Princeton?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. John Bliss, 6 McCash Circle, housewife: I'm in favor of it, but with reservations. So long as they are located not to interfere with existing residential buildings. When you say light industry, that's exactly what I mean — no factories, no smoke. We need the tax money; the only reason I'm in favor of it.

Edward B. Snook, 31 Hawthorne Avenue, bank examiner: I think we have enough light industry right now. Princeton is a small community and I think our facilities are pretty well taxed to the limit for the time being.

Mrs. Milbra Brant, 143 Terhune Road, housewife: I'd be opposed. I'm living in Princeton for a very selfish reason. It's sort of a Shangri-la for me and for others who have lived in areas that have been ruined where light industry was allowed to come in.

Dan Tammari, 33 Henry Avenue, letter carrier: I'd be for it. More industry would lower the tax rate and relieve some of the burden the tax payers are bearing. The way it looks now there will be no end to the tax rate climb in the Township.

Miss Anne Fowler, 75 Alexander Street, income investment clerk: Opposed, because it would probably lower the standard of living here.

Lawrence Kircher, 41 Stanley Avenue, contractor: I'm interested in anything that will cut down the property owner's taxes. It wouldn't mean a thing to me one way or the other if they brought in light industry.

Mrs. James Delano, 729 Prospect Avenue Extension, housewife: As long as it is light and as long as it is small. It would reduce taxes and be an asset to the Township for that reason. I feel much industry, though, would have to be individually screened and approved by the Township Committee.

Michael Ballinski, Managrove Lane, mathematician: Opposed. Because I'd like to see Princeton retain its small town atmosphere rather than become a large town which it seems to be rapidly becoming. It's too bad.

Mrs. John O. Green, 299 Edgewood Road, housewife: What is light industry? Where do you draw the line? When you allow so much light industry to come in, maybe heavy industry will follow. I'd hate to see a large amount of any kind of industry come to Princeton.

David Palmer, 3 Oak Road, Student at Yale Medical School: As far as I can tell, all the local merchants are doing well; they're not dying on the vine for lack of trade. I would not like to see more traffic or more crowds. We have enough of those problems already. One of the charms of Princeton is that it is a small rural town and I'd hate to see that change.

Mrs. Edith Wilson, West Windsor Township, housewife: As long as it didn't cause any air pollution or water pollution or did not lead in any way to bad housing. Since it would help relieve the tax burden, I don't see why the people would oppose it. On the other hand, I'm all for the country and I would like to see this area kept that way.

Richard S. Conger, 34 Greenhouse Drive, academic researcher: I would suggest defining this question of light industry to exclude the word "industry" and to define it in terms of "commercial enterprises" or some similar broad term. The people then can decide what they want to include or exclude under commercial enterprises. Peter Francis, who is a consulting engineer for East or West Windsor Township, had had this written into zoning laws there to eliminate the word industry; they have been very successful in getting the smoke-free nuisance-free ratings they want.

IT'S NEW To Us

HOT AND DRY?

Drinks to Try. Gin and tonic is not the only summer drink. You can cool off with equal success if you experiment with some of the new lightweight suggestions from The Pink Elephant, and we don't mean a nice glass of cold water. Pimm's No. 1 Cup, for example while not precisely new, is still not accorded the wide-spread use it deserves. This is, of course, the original gin and tonic and you serve it with lemon soda and a transparent slice of cucumber. Pink E. has it for $4.98 a fifth.

Try your tonic with Campari, an Italian "bitter" which is light (48 proof), dry and very cool. Goes well with soda. Too. For an aperitif, there is Byrron from France (not to be confused with beer from Milwaukee), or Postiano, the light-dry vermouth from the Savoie. Tourists with wistful memories of dining in Scandinavian countries will want one of the aquavit bottles from Pink Elephant's shelf. Denmark sends Aalborg and Sweden sends Anders. From Germany comes Beemunder, of which it is sometimes said that if you can still pronounce it, you haven't yet had enough.

Heublein's great contribution to civilization this year is the half-pint cocktail. For $1.29, you can buy an eight-ounce bottle of vodka sour, extra-dry martini, Manhattan, old-fashioned, sidecar, stinger, gin sour, whiskey sour, vodka martini or daiquiri.

Heublein says it's a 25 cent cocktail. We figure it 32 cents, but we may not have calculated the displacement of the olive. Larger bottles (24 ounces) are $3.79. Pink Elephant suggests the smaller ones for the tired traveler, or the host who wants to be able to provide everything.

On the soft side, Pink Elephant has Chocolate Yee-Hoo in a can for 11 cents, which ought to take care of the people that Heublein forget.

Our favorite on the Pink E. shelf is No-Cal quinine water. It's for people who want to reduce, one calorie at a time. The calories in the gin that you mix with the No-Cal quinine water? Please. Let's not discuss it.

Incidentally, in a week or so, Pink E. will have Dr. Pepper. Lots of people have been asking.

Last time we hunted for ice-cubes in the freezer, the chest was bare. If you'll pardon the expression, because the younger members of the family had taken all the ice-cubes for soft drinks. If this situation occurs in your deep-freeze, we offer a suggestion.

There is new Igloo in the Princeton Shopping Center. It replaces the one that used to be on Bayard Lane, and it is located in the southeast corner of the Center between the rear loading platform of the Penn. Market, and University Cleaners.

Here for a coin in a slot, you can have all the ice you want 24 hours a day. The suggestion is: buy up quantities of ice-cubes and use them in your freezer against the unexpected guest or the raiding party of steaming small fry in a hurry to cool off.

We said "cubes." You can also buy Igloo ice by the block, if such is your pleasure — 24 hours a day.

Prints or color snapshots, 12 on a 127 roll, synchronized for flash. And it's a $6.95 value.

Brownies go on up to $14.39 (Mall's price for the $17.99 job), and after that, you can buy a Kodak IV, the well-known Pony, a special purchase, due at the Princeton Center store soon, will provide you with a $43.95 Pony for $18.95. This 35 mm camera will produce black and whites or color slides and it has all the usual adjustments. No Brownie, in short.

You know, any camera that will take color pictures will also take black and whites. People sometimes ask, at Mall.

On up the scale, we find Agfa's completely automatic camera at $69.95, the original "point and shoot" mechanism, synchronized for flash with f 2.8 lens. Then, there's the Zeiss Contax single lens reflex with coupled light meter and Konika's little beauty with steel focal plane shutter guaranteed for life, f 2 lens and so on.

If you like things to move, Mall suggests you take on vacation Zeiss's Austrian movie camera, the C3 at $300, one of the few cameras synchronized for sound, with zoom lens, coupled light meter, battery motor so that you don't have to interrupt a scene to wind — Continued on Page 8 them, the story is about a proud and possessive woman by the name of Scarlet O'Hara. Vivien Leigh, who plays the Civil War. In the course of the 11-minute movie, Scarlett goes through three husbands, including one Rhett Butler (Clark Gable). Meanwhile, the second, even Atlanta burned, loses the war and experiences reconstruction. As it was an English author, Margaret Mitchell worked in the story of the marriage of Melanie (Olivia de Havilland) and Ashley (Leslie Howard) just for good measure.

And of course the whole production is on a truly magnificent scale in color, complete with the famous burning of Atlanta. In brief, if you haven't seen it, are curious and have hours to spare, if you have seen it but feel it was long enough ago to make another trip worthwhile, now is the time.

THE GARDEN
The Fabulous World of Jules Verne and Bimbo the Great (June 28-July 1) bring to the Princeton scene a relative rarity—a double feature. Fortunately, however, it is not the combination of one fairly good movie and one blunder, which is standard fare in many American towns. In this case, both features are specifically designed to appeal to the younger set and are both relatively short (together they contain less than three hours).
Also, both have been produced in Europe by new producers who bear the intriguing names of "Mifflin" and "Circuscope." "Mifflin," which is used for "The Fabulous World of Jules Verne," combines live action with animated cartoons and puppet techniques. It produces a definite feeling of depth but, because things happen a bit more slowly than normal, it also gives a dream-like effect. The second picture, "Circuscope," which is used in "Bimbo the Great," is much less spectacular and seems designed more to fit the subject matter than to describe a revolutionary technique.

On the basis of content, "The Fabulous World of Jules Verne" is by far the more interesting. Although it is not one of Verne's stories, it incorporates many of his ideas (submarines, huge balloons, missiles, etc.) into a manufactured plot involving the kidnapping of an 18th century scientist by a band of pirates. Verne's foresight is discussed by Hugh Birdwatchers will eschew camera for binoculars. A fine pair, with lenses coated on all surfaces, it appears in "Prisms and Leather Case," is $29.95, and of course you can buy on up from there at prices. Want binoculars? You can zero in on a wren.

Take your gadgets and spare film in a gadget bag, priced from $3.95 to $59. Because of the hazards of sun and spray on vacations, Mall advises against stocking up on too much film, a model's fresh only as much as you think you can use.

SUN ON THE PATIO
The Narrow Strap. What is used to be called a sun dress is now a patio dress, although is more apt to be called a terrace in New York, a fresh patio, which is California, and if that makes these terrace dresses. It's all the same dress anyway, and you can probably visualize it without much description.

Full skirt and bare top isn't what it pares down to. Mary Gill has a big, colorful skirt of these summer dresses. Some say, some sophisticated all breezeway cool.

Look at a green and white striped cotton, slipped down the front, with tie belt in front and a white pique yoke that curves round to become the inch-wide straps in pink and white striped shirt bursts from a solid pink top and joins it with a solid sash.

Fuchsia, deep wine, lime green and bottle green leaves burgeon all over the white ground of a polished cotton dress designed with unpressed pleats and a bottle green grosgrain black line drawings overlaid with burgundy, pink and lime butterflies.

An ETS staff member will serve as adviser to each scholar. Mrs. Ann Z. Smith is coordinator for the workshop and Mory J. Wantman is director of the discussion and practice sessions. Mr. Wantman has been in both Malaysia and in various African countries as The scholars come from Costa Rica, Pakistan, Ghana, Malaysia, Uganda, Nigeria, Afghanistan, the United Arab Republic and three from Turkey.

WILL BREAK GROUND

For Roosevelt Memorial.
Ground-breaking ceremonies for the first memorial in the United States to Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be held July 4 in nearby Roosevelt, a small town of 800 people named for the late president. The ceremonies will begin at 2 with a parade through the town to the site of the memorial.

Ben Shahn, artist and long-time resident of Roosevelt, conceived the idea for the memorial which includes a five-foot bronze head of the President, a mosaic - lined reflecting pool and a semi-circular amphitheater. The sculptured head of FDR is the work of Mr. Shahn's son, Jonathan.

The memorial has attracted national and international attention. Admirers of the late President have contributed sums ranging up to $1000. Thus far, half of the needed $20,000 has been raised and it is expected that the work will be completed and dedicated this fall.

The town of Roosevelt itself is a living memorial to FDR. It was planned and built by the federal government in the 1930's as an anti-depression measure.

DEAR TRAVELER,

After saving the places I mentioned last week we'll see St. Paul's Cathedral Lodge, Fleet Street (Newspaper Row), The Law Courts and visit Dickens' Old Curiosity Shop. Then we'll have a very special gourmet lunch at the 17th Century old Cheshire Cheese, famous for its literary associations. In the afternoon we'll roam around at will again and that evening have a gourmet dinner at the Elizabethan Room with traditional Old English Food, served in colorful style by costumed waiters.

Tuesday morning we'll depart for Copenhagen and the Hotel Royal!

 Downers, better known for his work on television, in a three-minute prologue.

"Bimbo the Great" is a more run-of-the-mill production. The circus scenes and musical numbers are designed for the children while a story of a famed lion tamer (Bimbo) who turns to drink loses his position and then tries to make a come-back, is intended for adults.

The Big Show (July 6-8) is the second attempt at a week by the management of the Garden to appeal to the circus-loving set. Unlike "Bimbo the Great" which preceded it, however, "The Big Show" is one of those big, expensive circus shows, featuring no less than Esther Williams, without swimming pool.

The action takes place in Europe and concerns the attempt by the empire-building head of a family of traveling artists to expand his operation by joining with a menagerie. His method is to promise a match between his eldest son, Josef (Cliff Robertson), and the polar bear taming daughter of the owner of the menagerie. But Josef is more interested in a wealthy American (Miss Williams) and his younger brother moves into the polar bear tamer.

Although in this instance the plot is something more than an excuse, it is not a particularly good excuse. The movie is to sleep during the romantic interludes and wake up in time for the thrilling high wire, trapeze and polar bear acts, which are well presented in Deluxe color and CinemaScope.

Go Naked in the World (July 3-5) has one very important factor in its favor — it doesn't pussyfoot around trying to cloak prostitution with genteel hints in hopes of attracting a slightly larger audience. Indeed, it deals with the subject in a frankly adult fashion, telling the tale of a call girl (Gina Lollobrigida, who is rather frankly adult herself) involved in a romance with a non-clout (Anthony Franciosa).

The problem is that the guy is not aware of her true profession. Since he is just out of the army (and presumably he learns something there), the viewer may wonder about his naivete. But if it takes time, the rest of the plot follows fairly easily: guy has overbearing father (Ernest Borgnine), father wants son in family business, son more interested in call girl.

Borgnine and Miss Lollobrigida are definitely the film's two greatest assets — Borgnine because he is a relatively good actor and Miss Lollobrigida because she doesn't need to be. This adult drama was filmed in San Francisco and Acapulco in Metrocolor and CinemaScope.

TEEN PROGRAM TO OPEN

 For Summer Lectures. Thirty-six staff members of the New School for Music Study have left Princeton for an eight-week summer lecture tour covering 40 states and Canada. They are traveling in teams of two giving one-day workshops for piano teachers on the New School's materials developed at the school.

Lecturing in the Midwest are Richard Chouinard, former head of the piano pedagogy department at Tulsa University and now chairman of group instructions at the New School, and Edward Darling of the New School's Junior Department. Doris Martin, instructor of piano pedagogy, and Elizabeth Hall, director of the school's Music Playshop, are covering the western states, while Elvina Trueman, director of the Junior department, and Elmer Heerema are touring the south.

Mrs. John O. Green, 929 Edgemoor Road, Bensenville: What a light industry? Where do you draw the line? When you allow so much light industry to come in, maybe heavy industry will follow. I'd hate to see try any amount of any kind of industry come to this vicinity.

David Fulmer, 3 Ober Road, student at Yale Medical School? As far as I can tell, all the local merchants are doing well; they're not dying on the vine for lack of trade. I would not like to see more traffic or more crowds. We have enough of those problems.

SPORTS In Princeton

PAC LEADS LEAGUE
 WAS First Three Games.
 After going through the 1800 season with only three victories, the Princeton Athletic Club has sharply reversed its course by winning the first three games of the current campaign. As a result, the Tri-City League standings as of the week began showed Princeton in first place with a 3-0 record.

Hightstown, Montgomery Township and South Brunswick all had identical 1-2 marks. Playing its home games at Bill Clarke Field near Palmer Stadium, the PAC nine faces Hightstown this Thursday and South Brunswick next Thursday at 6:15.

A pair of one-run hitters were credited to Princeton pitching last week as Hightstown and South Brunswick were turned back by respective scores of 4-0 and 4-2. Dick Olson blanked Hightstown, taking a no-hitter into the sixth inning before a Texas Leaguer to center spoiled his bid. The PHIS graduate fanned 15, seven of them in a row.

Thursday night on the University's new Clarke Field, Bruce Sindvik won his second game of the season as he topped South Brunswick, 4-2. His back-handed single in the third scored two after a squeeze bunt by Ed King brought in the run for the victory.

A LOOK AHEAD
 Basketball Schedule Set. A 23-game basketball schedule has been arranged for Princeton's Ivy League champions, who will be aiming for an unprecedented third straight title. Pennsylvania, chief threat of the Catskills, will play host to the Orange and Black in its opener at the Palestra on January 14. With the Tigers also scheduled to travel to New Haven and Providence before their first Ivy game in Dillon Gym.

The Tigers will spend much of their time on the road in the first six weeks of the season. They open at Easton against Lafayette, and after playing Villanova and Army here, will face Temple and Navy away. A home contest with Rutgers on December 20 concludes the pre-holiday action.

One Man Missing. As was the case at the outset of the 1960-61 season, one major replacement must be made by Cappon as he prepares defense of the championship. A year ago, Jim Brangan was the lone loss through graduation; now the missing link is Don Swan, the extremely steady captain of the past season.

A fifth man will probably be found among the upcoming sophomores, since virtually all of the available bench strength graduated along with Swan. Having survived the loss of Brangan, chances are the Tigers will find a replacement for Swan who will keep the level of ability at a high pitch.

Three seniors and a junior will constitute the primary strength of the Tiger quintet. High-scoring Pete Campbell, who averaged 19.1 points last winter, is a solid bet to break all Princeton's three-year scoring records before he graduates, will be on hand again.

So will Captain-elect Art Kammernier, a sturdy 6-5 and leader in rebounds. A third senior will be Jack Waiselbaum, who nailed down a starting berth at the outset of the past season.

Art Hylton, one of the ablest sophomores to earn a regular position at the beginning of the season, and four percent from the floor, and are extremely capable under pressure.

No announcement has been made yet, but belief is that Cappon will get medical clearance to return to the coaching spot he left in January. Jake McCandless took over for him, piloted the team into the second round of the NCAA Tournament after dropping up the Ivy title before the season ended.

THE 1961-62 schedule:
 Dec. 2, Lafayette at Easton; Dec. 6, Villanova; Dec. 9, Army; Dec. 13, Temple at Philadelphia; Dec. 16, Navy at Philadelphia; Dec. 20, Rutgers; Dec. 27, Northwestern at Evanston; Dec. 28, Creighton at Omaha; Jan. 1, Butler at Indianapolis; Jan. 6, Pennsylvania at Princeton.

and the King's Inn, 9 to 1, solidified Ivy Inn's lead in the Sportsman's Softball League during the past week. Lou De Meglio was the winner in both games.

Hunkin's took a short-lived con-run lead, but the pace-setters pulled over five in the fifth to coast home. Against King's Inn, Ivy Inn broke up the game even earlier with one in the first and six in the second. Dan Sculeri's three-run homer featured the big inning. The Sportsman topped King's Inn, 13, last week in the closest game of those played. Joe Fisher threw a two-liter to win.
